* A second version of this inventory is bound as membrane 11 of this MS. The top of each document is obscured where the indented section has been folded over, and could not be photographed, but the opening words of membrane 11 are: 'MEMO: that Robert de Nunthey, serviens of Morden, delivered to John Huberd, reeve afterwards in the same place, ...'. Thus membrane 11 appears to be Robert de Nunthey's inventory of items handed over to his successor, John Huberd, whereas membrane 9 appears to be John Huberd's receipt.

† Edward II's 17th year ran from Friday 8 July 1323 (the Morrow of the Translation of St Thomas of Canterbury) to Saturday 7 July 1324.

‡ This entry is omitted from membrane 11.

§ Membrane 11 has 2 quarters ½bushel, as do the maslin accounts on the dorse of membranes 13 and 10. 2 quarters 2½ bushels are needed to balance the figures given on membrane 13.

 Membrane 11 reads 'delivered to the same'.

†† Membrane 11 reads '1 male colt of issue this year', as does the Livestock account on membrane 13 dorse. It is corrected from female to male on John Huberd's first account on membrane 10 dorse.

‡‡ Membrane 11 has 'Also delivered to the same'.

§§ Membrane 11 has 'Also delivered to the same'.

 Membrane 9 reads iron-bound [ferro ligat']; membrane 11 'iron' [ferrat'].
